Every shot serves a purpose. We believe every piece of apparel should too.

Whether we're on the practice tee or in the design studio, nuance separates good from great. Rookline is built for those who seek the latter. Over time, swing thoughts change. Trends fade. What lasts is earned. Real progress demands discipline, patience, and a willingness to stay stubborn when it matters.

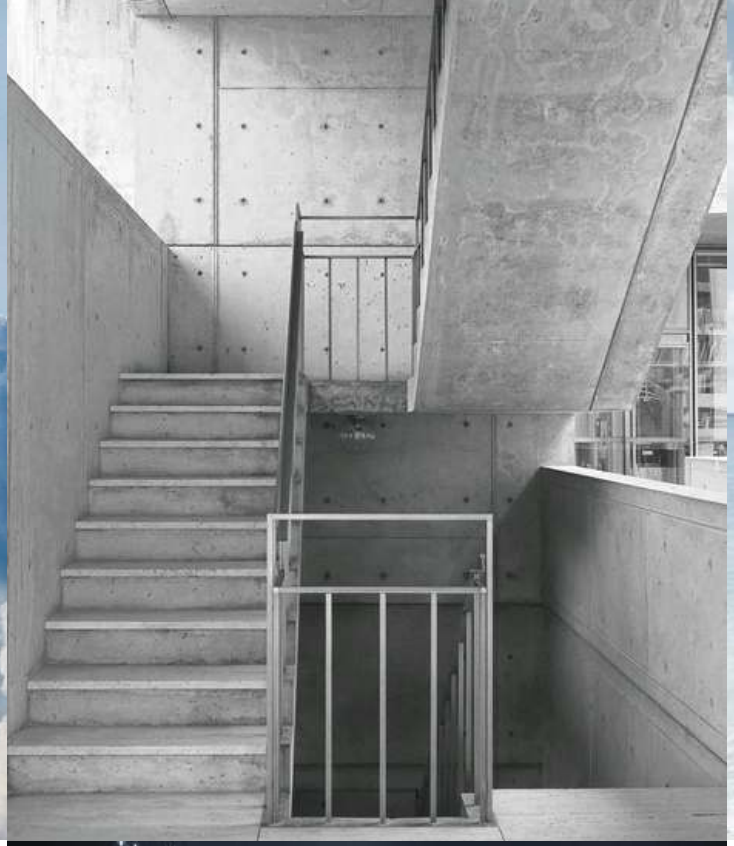

Excellence in apparel is the sum of countless details done right. At Rookline, end use anchors every product journey. Can this fabric perform while walking 36 in summer heat? Can this layer balance warmth and bulk? Will I choose this piece over an old-faithful for long travel days? The small details make all the difference and we give each the same attention we give a three-foot slider.

We are an emerging brand, but what we've built is a continuation, refined by experience and driven by purpose.

Crafted from 100% cashmere, this crewneck uses two ends of yarn twisted into one for added resilience and body. Constructed with a fully fashioned set-in sleeve, this garment balances warmth, breathability, and structure: proof that natural fibers remain the original performance materials.

Ottoman rib is a traditional knitting technique known for structure and durability. Using a thicker yarn in the course (side-to-side) than the wale (up- and-down), it creates raised ribs that run horizontally across the fabric, which gives the knit depth and integrity.

Product Details

The Signature Blend Polo is a long sleeve piece designed with playability in mind. Knit from a 95/5 cotton cashmere blend, it balances the body of cotton with the softness, breathability, and warmth of cashmere. A self collar with tonal piping keeps this elevated piece atop the rotation late into the season. A fully fashioned angled raglan sleeve allows for unrestricted movement through the swing, while ribbed cuffs keep the silhouette clean. A slight taper from chest to bottom hem provides subtle shape without cling. A foundational piece built for the course.

Founder's Note.

I grew up in a household that lived and breathed apparel. Design, manufacturing, materials - all routine dinner table topics. This instilled an immense appreciation for detail, quality and nuance from an early age. As a husband and father of two, I take immense pride in these traits carrying forward in my family's home today.

I was introduced to golf in 2007 and quickly became consumed. Practice sessions, lessons, breakthroughs, plateaus, putting on the living room carpet - I fell in love with it all.

Having played competitive ice hockey through college, performance and preparation were always central to how I approached sport. I've always appreciated the connection between movement, function, and design.

Apparel, golf, fitness, and family are the pillars of my life and the very foundation of Rookline. While we are an emerging brand, we are grown from roots planted over decades.
